3. Staff Rights and Responsibilities

All staff are entitled to:

- Recruitment and selection decisions based on merit and not affected by irrelevant personal characteristics
- Work free from discrimination, bullying and sexual harassment
- The right to raise issues or to make an inquiry or complaint in a reasonable and respectful manner without being victimized
- Reasonable flexibility in working arrangements, especially where needed to accommodate their family responsibilities, disability, religious beliefs or culture.

All staff must:

- Follow the standards of behavior outlined in this policy
- Offer support to people who experience discrimination, bullying or sexual harassment, including providing information about how to make a complaint
- Avoid gossip and respect the confidentiality of complaint resolution procedures
- Treat everyone with dignity, courtesy and respect.
3.1 Additional Responsibilities of Managers and Supervisors

Managers and supervisors must also:

- Model appropriate standards of behavior
- Take steps to educate and make staff aware of their obligations under this policy and the law
- Intervene quickly and appropriately when they become aware of inappropriate behavior
- Act fairly to resolve issues and enforce workplace behavioral standards, making sure relevant parties are heard
- Help staff resolve complaints informally
- Refer formal complaints about breaches of this policy to the appropriate complaint handling officer for investigation
- Ensure staff who raise an issue or make a complaint are not victimized
- Ensure that recruitment decisions are based on merit and that no discriminatory requests for information are made
- Seriously consider requests for flexible work arrangements.
4. Unacceptable workplace conduct

Discrimination, bullying and sexual harassment are unacceptable at In Safe Hands Educators in Safety and are unlawful under the following legislation:

- Age Discrimination Act 2004
- Australian Human Rights Commission Act 1986
- Disability Discrimination Act 1992
- Racial Discrimination Act 1975
- Sex Discrimination Act 1984
- New South Wales – Anti-Discrimination Act 1977
- Northern Territory – Anti-Discrimination Act 1996
- Queensland – Anti-Discrimination Act 1991
- South Australia – Equal Opportunity Act 1984
- Tasmania – Anti-Discrimination Act 1998
- Victoria – Equal Opportunity Act 2010

Staff (including managers) found to have engaged in such conduct might be counseled, warned or disciplined. Severe or repeated breaches can lead to formal discipline up to and including dismissal.

4.1 Discrimination

Discrimination is treating, or proposing to treat, someone unfavorably because of a personal characteristic protected by the law, such as sex, age, race or disability.

Discrimination can occur:

Directly, when a person or group is treated less favorably than another person or group in a similar situation because of a personal characteristic protected by law (see list below).

For example, a worker is harassed and humiliated because of their race or
A worker is refused promotion because they are ‘too old’

Indirectly, when an unreasonable requirement, condition or practice is imposed that has, or is likely to have, the effect of disadvantaging people with a personal characteristic protected by law (see list below).

For example, redundancy is decided based on people who have had a worker’s compensation claim rather than on merit.

Child Protection is everyone’s business - make it yours!

For the latest version, this document can be found on the ISH website in the resources section.
Protected personal characteristics under Federal discrimination law include:

- A disability, disease or injury, including work-related injury
- Parental status or status as a carer, for example, because they are responsible for caring for children or other family members
- Race, color, descent, national origin, or ethnic background
- Age, whether young or old, or because of age in general
- Sex
- Industrial activity, including being a member of an industrial organization like a trade union or taking part in industrial activity, or deciding not to join a union
- Religion
- Pregnancy and breastfeeding
- Sexual orientation, inter sex status or gender identity, including gay, lesbian, bisexual, transsexual, trans-gender, queer and heterosexual
- Marital status, whether married, divorced, unmarried or in a de facto relationship or same sex relationship
- Political opinion
- Social origin
- Medical record
- An association with someone who has, or is assumed to have, one of these characteristics, such as being the parent of a child with a disability.

It is also against the law to treat someone unfavorably because you assume they have a personal characteristic or may have it at some time in the future.

4.2 Bullying

If someone is being bullied because of a personal characteristic protected by equal opportunity law, it is a form of discrimination.

Bullying can take many forms, including jokes, teasing, nicknames, emails, pictures, text messages, social isolation or ignoring people, or unfair work practices.

Under Federal law, this behavior does not have to be repeated to be discrimination – it may be a one-off event.

Behaviors that may constitute bullying include:

- Sarcasm and other forms of demeaning language
- Threats, abuse or shouting
- Coercion
- Isolation
- Inappropriate blaming
- Ganging up
- Constant nonconstructive criticism
- Deliberately withholding information or equipment that a person needs to do their job or access their entitlements
- Unreasonable refusal of requests for leave, training or other workplace benefits.

Bullying is unacceptable in In Safe Hands Educators in Safety and may also be against occupational health and safety law.
4.3 Sexual harassment

Sexual harassment is a specific and serious form of harassment. It is unwelcome sexual behavior, which could be expected to make a person feel offended, humiliated or intimidated. Sexual harassment can be physical, spoken or written. It can include:

- Comments about a person's private life or the way they look
- Sexually suggestive behavior, such as leering or staring
- Brushing up against someone, touching, fondling or hugging
- Sexually suggestive comments or jokes
- Displaying offensive screen savers, photos, calendars or objects
- Repeated unwanted requests to 'meet up'
- Requests for sex
- Sexually explicit posts on social networking sites
- Insults or taunts of a sexual nature
- Intrusive questions or statements about a person's private life
- Sending sexually explicit emails or text messages
- Inappropriate advances on social networking sites
- Accessing sexually explicit Internet sites
- Behavior that may also be considered to be an offence under criminal law, such as physical assault, indecent exposure, sexual assault, stalking or obscene communications.

Just because someone does not object to inappropriate behavior in the workplace at the time, it does not mean that they are consenting to the behavior.

Sexual harassment is covered in the workplace when it happens at work, at work-related events, between people sharing the same workplace, or between colleagues outside of work.

All staff and volunteers have the same rights and responsibilities in relation to sexual harassment.

A single incident is enough to constitute sexual harassment – it doesn’t have to be repeated.

All incidents of sexual harassment – no matter how large or small or who is involved – require employers and managers to respond quickly and appropriately.

In Safe Hands Educators in Safety recognizes that comments and behavior that do not offend one person can offend another. This policy requires all staff and volunteers to respect other people’s limits.

4.4 Victimization

Victimization is subjecting or threatening to subject someone to a detriment because they have asserted their rights under equal opportunity law, made a complaint, helped someone else make a complaint, or refused to do something because it would be discrimination, sexual harassment or victimization. Victimization is against the law.

It is also victimization to threaten someone (such as a witness) who may be involved in investigating an equal opportunity concern or complaint.

Victimization is a very serious breach of this policy and is likely (depending on the severity and circumstances) to result in formal discipline against the perpetrator.

In Safe Hands Educators in Safety has a zero tolerance approach to victimization.
4.5 Gossip

It is unacceptable for staff at In Safe Hands Educators in Safety to talk with other staff members, clients or suppliers about any complaint of discrimination or harassment.

Breaching the confidentiality of a formal complaint investigation or inappropriately disclosing personal information obtained in a professional role (for example, as a manager) is a serious breach of this policy and may lead to formal discipline.

5. Merit at In Safe Hands Educators in Safety

All recruitment and job selection decisions at In Safe Hands Educators in Safety will be based on merit – the skills and abilities of the candidate as measured against the inherent requirements of the position – regardless of personal characteristics.

It is unacceptable and may be against the law to ask job candidates questions, or to in any other way seek information, about their personal characteristics, unless this can be shown to be directly relevant to a genuine requirement of the position.

6.1 Staff Resolving issues at In Safe Hands Educators in Safety

In Safe Hands Educators in Safety strongly encourages any staff member who believes they have been discriminated against, bullied, sexually harassed or victimized to take appropriate action by requesting a meeting with their manager to discuss the incident. If the complaint is against the staff members’ manager then a meeting request should be made with the CEO. (michael@insafehands.net.au)

Staff who do not feel safe or confident to take such action may seek assistance from Tracie Pecic (tracie@insafehands.net.au) for advice and support or action their behalf.

6.2 Learners Resolving issues at In Safe Hands Educators in Safety

In Safe Hands Educators in Safety strongly encourages any learner or member of the public who believes they have been discriminated against, bullied, sexually harassed or victimized by a member of the In Safe Hands team to take appropriate action by requesting a meeting with the CEO, Michael Pecic (michael@insafehands.net.au) to discuss the incident. If the complaint is against the CEO then the inquiry can directed to Tracie Pecic. (tracie@insafehands.net.au)
